

Romtens Foundation is a non-governmental organization, recognized by the government of Romania as a public utility organization. Romtens Foundation is specialized in health promotion, applying scientific research, evaluation and technical assistance expertise to a wide range of issues from social and public health field.

Romtens Foundation has been continuously developing health promotion activities for the past 12 years in different areas: healthy behaviours, communication, tobacco control, workplace related stress, mental health. The Foundation is also working to encourage improvements in the efficiency and efficacy of health services by seeking to involve other NGO's and different medical and non-medical institutions in the development of local and regional networks in public health and health promotion activities.

Romtens Foundation is currently working in the following areas:

- Technical Assistance and Evaluation Services provided to government, community organizations, and businesses, relying on sound information, analysis and strategic thinking as the best foundations for decision-making;
- Quantitative and Qualitative Research applied to provide stakeholders with reliable information about the effectiveness of existing policies and potential strategies for action;
- Monitoring and Evaluation Plans spanned from small pin pointed interventions (various needs assessment research initiatives) to large ones built up for large nationwide interventions;
- Training in health related regulatory requirements, program guidelines, policies and practices, and management improvements;
- Promotion and Information Campaigns using a wide array of communication techniques harnessed in projects for communicating specific messages to a broader audience, for communicating specific information to targeted/specific audiences, or because the project aimed at improving communication through its specific techniques.
